

MICHAEL'S BIO IN A NUTSHELL

Michael Kuhlmann is Head of Product at Parcelly and leading the Hamburg based product development team, including the technical development and project management of all internal, B2B and B2C facing products which are part of Parcelly's technology platform. He programmed both Parcelly iOS client and merchant apps.

Michael started his career as a freelance mobile developer during his studies at FH Wedel University of Applied Science. He since worked for various Start-ups including myTaxi and familo.net as well as for established companies like Mercedes Benz, TV Spielfilm, ARD and Elitepartner. During the past 8 years of his career he developed a strong affection for building digital products that provide customers with real sustainable benefits, and founded the mobile agency APPUNK in 2013.

During his spare time Michael can be found at the gym or on the golf course, and loves motorsports and travelling.
